export and re-export control laws and regulations). We may suspend or terminate your use of this Website, or your account, at any time, in our sole discretion, including as a result of your violation of these Terms.

Services Offered

These Terms and our Privacy Policy, and any additional terms you've agreed to by accessing specific Services, such as the Security Features Check ("SFC"), AMTSO Testing Contact List ("Contact List"), Real Time Threat List ("RTTL"), and information relating to the AMTSO Standards and Accreditation Program ("Standards") (collectively, the "Additional Terms") make up these entire Terms and supersede all prior agreements, representations, and understandings. Any Additional Terms will be considered incorporated into these Terms when you activate the feature. Where there's a conflict between these Terms and the Additional Terms, the Additional Terms will control.

Contact List

As part of the Standards program, AMTSO may offer on its Website a service to list contact information for each security product vendor and tester that may provide, or be included in, an anti-malware test that uses the Standards. By submitting your or your company's information to the Contact List, you are specifically authorizing and approving the use of your information as set forth below. If you are not authorized to provide this information or do not approve this use, please do not include the information on the Contact List or otherwise provide it to AMTSO.

We recommend that any party including contact information on the Contact List not include personally identifiable information, but rather include an email alias and other anonymized contact information for the company or product included in an anti-malware test, not any one person. For example, instead of including the contact as [john@amtso.com], include [amtsocontact@amtso.com].

The Contact List will not be publicly available. It will be made available to AMTSO members or non-member anti-malware testers that need to have the information to comply with the AMTSO Standards.

The Contact List is for use specifically for dissemination of information related to a test intended to be accredited under the AMTSO Standards program. In addition to these Terms, the Contact List is subject the following additional restrictions:

- Any access to the Contact List will be determined subject to the sole discretion of AMTSO.
- The access and use of the Contact List is limited specifically to appropriate communications in compliance with the AMTSO Standards.
- Each user bears the responsibility for knowing and complying with AMTSO's policies prior to use of the Contact List, including specifically the AMTSO Privacy Policy, Antitrust Guidelines, Code of Conduct, and Intellectual Property Policy, and any relevant laws, policies, and rules.

No part of this document may be reproduced in any form, in an electronic retrieval system or otherwise, without the prior written consent of the publisher.

- If any person or entity that has had access to the Contact List is no longer involved with AMTSO or the Standards, such person or entity must delete all records including information derived from the Contact List and cease all access.
- If you have included any information on the Contact List, you may update or remove that information at any time by following instructions posted on the webpage.
- In the event of a security breach that may expose information from the Contact List, we will use commercially reasonable efforts to notify the impacted party of the breach and provide a description of what happened.
- If you have received information from the Contact List, in the event of a security breach that may have exposed information from the Contact List to a third-party, you agree to use commercially reasonable efforts to notify the impacted party of the breach and provide a description of what happened.
- Spam mailings and/or commercial use of any information on the Contact List are potential grounds of temporary or permanent removal from access to the Contact List, and may be grounds for termination of AMTSO membership or loss of AMTSO accreditation. For this purpose, “commercial use” includes any for, or not-for-profit entities that have no connection to AMTSO.

Although we do not expect to receive any personal data from users of our Website or any service, other than our members or parties using the Contact List, we respect your privacy and encourage you to read our Privacy Policy, which explains how we would treat any such personal data and protect your privacy when you use this Website. If you have provided any personal information to AMTSO and would like to have that information deleted, please send a request to privacy@amtso.org.
